Vodafone starts programme to recruit career-break women

By Andrew Hill

Vodafone is starting a programme to recruit women who have taken a career break. The telecoms company aims to hire 1,000 people worldwide over three years. Half will be in roles such as call centres and shops, and the other half in managerial positions. It hopes to attract skilled workers who are trying to return to a job after up to a decade out of the workplace.

- 5 Vodafone's ReConnect programme is the latest in a number of initiatives aimed at encouraging workers to restart their careers after a break.

Royal Bank of Scotland's Comeback Programme provides 'returnships' of 12–16 weeks, including work placements, coaching and networking opportunities.

- 10 A study prepared for Vodafone estimates that 96 million skilled women aged between 30 and 54 are on career breaks worldwide. This includes 55 million who have experience as middle managers or in more senior roles. Another survey showed that eight out of ten believed that more support is needed for women who want to return to work.

- 15 Vodafone's programme is not restricted to former Vodafone staff and is open to men as well as women. However, the group expects most of the candidates to be women, many of whom will have stepped off the career ladder to have children. The scheme will extend to 26 countries. Participants will have the opportunity to refresh skills and will be offered flexible working options. An early ReConnect programme in eleven countries recruited 50 people, aged between 28 and 58, who had been out of the workplace for between 1 and 10 years.

- 20 ReConnect candidates will account for 10 percent of all Vodafone's external management recruitment. Those taking part will have the chance to apply for permanent new jobs or to replace staff who leave. Vodafone believes the programme will help it meet its target of increasing the proportion of women in its 7,500 managerial roles from 27 percent to 30 percent.

- 25 In 2015, Vodafone became one of the first multinational companies to offer new mothers equal minimum maternity leave – set at 16 weeks – around the globe. It also offers full pay for new mothers for a reduced 30-hour week during their first 6 months back at work.
