Pia What are you reading, Sam?

Sam I'm reading an article about AI.

Pia What's AI?

Sam It stands for ¹ artificial intelligence. This company is developing ² _____ to talk to their customers online. So far, they have developed a ³ _____. This early version still has a lot of problems. They think their ⁴ _____ will be ready in a couple of years.

Pia That's interesting. Are they only going to use it for customer service?

Sam Well, right now the company is using simpler chatbots as ⁵ _____. These devices use ⁶ _____, so you just talk to them to turn them on. They also have cameras and use ⁷ _____, so when you look at them, they know who you are.

Conversation 2

computer-generated speech	computer translation	image recognition
operating system	text to speech	voice recognition

Carlo Hey, Allie, what are you doing?

Allie I'm getting ready for my trip to Italy. I'm downloading a new app. It's a ⁸ _____ app because I don't speak much Italian.

Carlo Cool. Is it easy to use?

Allie It's really easy to use. You just say something in English. The computer uses ⁹ _____, so it understands what you say and shows you the Italian translation. It also uses ¹⁰ _____, so your phone can say the words after translating them.

Carlo That's cool. Does it sound like a real person, or does it sound like really bad ¹¹ _____?

Allie It sounds like a real person. It uses ¹² _____, too, so you can take a photo of text and the phone can translate the text from the picture.

Carlo I could really use that. I wonder if it would work with my ¹³ _____.

Allie It should work on any phone or tablet. You should try it!

2 GRAMMAR: Future perfect and future continuous

A Find the errors and rewrite each sentence.

- 1 I'll staying at my sister's house next week.

- 2 We'll have finish dinner before the movie starts.

- 3 I have taken eight classes by the end of the year.

- 4 You be working with Kim on this project.

- 5 Everyone will leave by the time Mark gets here.

- Pedro Is anyone else going to be there with you?
- Yuki Yes, our friend Sarah is also coming. She's leaving tonight, so ⁶she'll be arriving / she'll have arrived by the time I get there.
- Pedro ⁷How long will you be staying / How long will you have stayed?
- Yuki I'll be there for a week. I can't wait! ⁸We'll be talking and having fun / We'll have talked and had fun all week long.

3 GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY

A Answer the questions with your own ideas about developments in technology. Write complete sentences.

- 1 In twenty years, what new technology do you think will be available that we don't have now?

- 2 What technology will have disappeared?

- 3 What technology will we be using all the time?

- 4 What things will we still be able to do without technology?

1 LISTENING

A 1.01 LISTEN FOR ATTITUDE Listen to a conversation between two friends, Carrie and Paul. Answer the questions.

- 1 Does Carrie like the app or not?

- 2 What does Carrie say that shows how she feels about the app?

- 3 Does Paul like the app or not?

- 4 What does Paul say that shows how he feels about the app?

B 1.01 LISTEN FOR MAIN POINTS Listen again. Complete the chart with positives and negatives of facial recognition technology.

Positives	Negatives

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY Who do you think would want to use facial recognition technology? Who do you think would not want to use it? Explain your ideas.

3 SPEAKING

A Complete the conversations with the phrases in the box. Two of the phrases won't be used.

-------------------------------------	---------------------------------	---	--------------------------------------

- 1 A Robots have advanced so much in the past few years. I think they'll drastically change the way we live in the next five years or so.
B I get where you're coming from, but I don't think things will change that radically.
- 2 A I don't like to use virtual assistants. I've heard that everything they hear is recorded and stored. I don't want all of my personal conversations recorded.
B I hadn't _____ like that. Now I don't know if I want to keep mine.
- 3 A I hope chatbots don't replace all customer service personnel. I like talking to real people.
B I understand what _____, but I think chatbots will help companies save money, and then their goods and services will be cheaper to buy.
- 4 A I don't think we should let robots do so many different jobs. They'll take jobs away from people.
B You could _____, but if robots do simple jobs, humans will be able to do more interesting work.
- 5 A Language is really complex. Computer translation apps make so many mistakes. That's why I don't like to use them.
B That's a _____, but they can be helpful sometimes.
- 6 A I think I would feel uncomfortable having a robot that looks like a human cooking, cleaning, and walking around in my home. It would be weird.
B I _____, but it would be really convenient not to have to cook and clean anymore.

B Write a conversation for each situation. Use the language you practiced in exercise 3A.

- 1 Anna doesn't like using speech-to-text because there are always so many mistakes. Timo thinks it saves time and helps people who have trouble with their hands.

Anna _____

1 READING

A PREDICT CONTENT FROM PICTURES Look at the pictures. What ideas do you think might be explored in this essay? Check (✓) the ideas. Then read the essay and check your answers.

- a benefits of computer translation
- b advantages of speaking multiple languages
- c what human translators do better than computers
- d disadvantages of computer translation
- e costs of human translators vs. computers

ROBOT TRANSLATORS – THEY’RE FASTER, BUT ARE THEY BETTER?

Robots have already become a necessity in some industries. For instance, automobile factories rely on car-building robots for their precision and speed. The mining industry uses robots to mine efficiently and safely. Robotics technology will undoubtedly continue to advance, and robots will be replacing humans in a variety of fields. However, in the field of translation, artificial intelligence is no match for humans.

Computerized translation has its benefits. In situations such as, government meetings and international conferences, computers can translate for hours on end without tiring, unlike human translators. While a person can type an average of about 40 words per minute, a computer can work more than ten times as fast. In addition, a single computer can translate an unlimited number of languages. A person can only translate one language at a time.

Despite the benefits of computer technology, humans will likely always produce better and more accurate translations. First of all, no computer can understand all the slang, idioms, expressions, and local variations in even a single language. For example, how would a robot translate the expression “I’ve got your back,” which does not translate literally? Second, computers can’t pick up on things like the subtle differences in the meanings of words, tone, emotion, humor, or sarcasm. For instance, would a robot understand the slang usage of the phrase “give me a ring,” which can mean “call me”? Third, language constantly changes. New words are born and existing words take on new meanings. All of these factors can lead to mistranslations and confusion. For these reasons, it will probably be a long time before computers can feasibly replace humans in the field of translation.

B READ FOR DETAIL Read the essay again. Answer the questions.

1 What reasons does the writer give for stating that computer translation technology is not as good as human translators?

2 According to the writer, what are some benefits of computerized translation?

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY Answer the question.

Do you think someone who speaks multiple languages would agree or disagree with this essay? Explain.

3 WRITING

A Circle the correct expressions.

- 1 In the field of medicine, robots perform a variety of tasks, just to name a few / such as dispensing medicine and assisting in surgeries.
- 2 We're already using robots in our daily lives. To name a few, / Take, for example, chatbots.
- 3 Robots can do things humans can't—lift heavy objects, make extremely fast calculations, and work for 24 hours straight, just to name a few / namely.
- 4 I would love to have a robot in my house to do a lot of things I don't want to do, like / take, for example, wash the dishes and clean the bathroom.
- 5 Many households already use robot technology for housekeeping purposes. Namely / For instance, robotic vacuum cleaners are very popular.

B You are going to write an essay in response to the statement below. Do you agree or disagree with the statement? Organize your ideas in an outline for a three-paragraph essay. Then write your essay.

Future advances in technology are going to give us more free time.

Paragraph 1: Discussing the statement and its potential consequences _____

Paragraph 2: Exploring counterarguments _____

Paragraph 3: Giving a personal opinion _____

CHECK AND REVIEW

Read the statements. Can you do these things?

Max Are you going to Hassan's annual picnic on Saturday, Jan?

Jan No, I don't think so. Are you?

Max No, I don't like big group events. They make me so tired.

Jan Same ¹ _____! If I went to the picnic, I'd have to rest all day Sunday.

Max I know exactly what you ² _____. I went to the picnic last year. It was a lot of fun, but I had to stay home and watch movies by myself the whole next day.

Jan That's ³ _____ like the time I went to my college reunion. I spent the next day watching movies and reading. I just like spending time alone, I guess.

Max I ⁴ _____ you. I love spending time alone. I did a personality quiz once, and I found out I'm an introvert.

Jan What a ⁵ _____! I'm an introvert, too. And introverts aren't shy or aloof like people think.

Max That's right. We just need more alone time than other people do.

Jan Yeah, I need a lot of alone time. My husband, Peter, doesn't though. He's an extrovert. He loves being around other people.

Max I can ⁶ _____ to that. My best friend Rick always wants to go to parties. He finally stopped asking me to go with him. Has that been your ⁷ _____ with your husband?

Jan Yes, exactly. He used to try to get me to go to parties with him all the time, but he finally gave up.

A LOT OF WORK FOR NOTHING?

A lot of work goes into creating a nutrition label. Calorie, fat, sugar, and nutrient content must be carefully measured for accuracy so that consumers can make informed decisions about what they eat and feed their families. However, consumers can only benefit from that information if they actually read the labels. Recently, two groups of researchers were curious about whether or not people do read nutrition labels.

One of the studies, which was conducted by the United States Food and Drug Administration, found that 50% of US adults say that they read nutrition labels all or most of the time. That means that 50% report not reading them most of the time. The study reveals that twelve percent of adults say they rarely read the labels, and surprisingly, 10% claim never to read them.

A study led by researchers at the University of Minnesota focused on which label components participants looked at. Thirty-three percent of participants said that they usually read the calorie content. Between 24% and 31% said that they read the fat, sugar, and serving size information on nutrition labels. But were the participants reporting their behavior accurately? The researchers used eye trackers to see which parts of the labels participants were actually reading. The eye-tracker data indicated that only 9% of participants read the calorie count, and a mere 1% looked at calorie, fat, sugar, and serving size information.

Why don't people actually read nutrition labels? One reason may be that they are printed in small type that may be hard to read. Another reason may be that there is too much information on them to understand them easily. Whatever the reason, the data would suggest that nutrition labels are not as effective and useful as we might have hoped they would be.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND JOHN F. KENNEDY: Parallel Lives?

Abraham Lincoln and John F. Kennedy were both American presidents. But the similarities between them don't stop there. Read on and find out about the remarkable coincidences in the lives and deaths of the two men.

- Lincoln became president in 1860. Kennedy had that same honor in 1960.
- The names Lincoln and Kennedy both contain seven letters.
- Both presidents were assassinated on a Friday.
- Lincoln's secretary, Kennedy, warned him not to go to the theater, where he was assassinated. Kennedy's secretary, Lincoln, warned him not to go to Dallas, where he would later be killed.
- Both their assassins were known by three names: John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald.
- Both men were succeeded as president by men named Johnson—Andrew and Lyndon B.

THE LINCOLN AND KENNEDY COINCIDENCES: Are they as amazing as they seem?

The long list of coincidences between Abraham Lincoln and John F. Kennedy has been circulating on the Internet for several years now. How accurate is this list? Let's examine the facts:

- The two men were elected president 100 years apart, which is no more than a satisfying round number. US Presidential elections occur every four years, or 25 times per century.
- The average length of US Presidents' names is 6.6 letters, so 7 letters is not uncommon. Also, their first names do not contain the same number of letters.
- Because there are only seven days in a week, there is a one in seven chance that they would have been assassinated on the same day of the week. In addition, the actual dates of their assassinations are different. Lincoln died on April 15, 1865 while Kennedy died on November 22, 1963.
- There is no record of Abraham Lincoln having had a secretary named Kennedy. John F. Kennedy did, indeed, have a secretary named Evelyn Lincoln, but there is no proof that she warned him not to go to Dallas. In addition, both men may have been warned on the days they were killed, but both had been warned several other times not to attend events because of threats to their lives.
- Before Kennedy's assassination, Lee Harvey Oswald went by the name Lee, not Lee Harvey. His middle name was used publicly only after the assassination. In addition, many Americans have three names—a first, a middle, and a last name.
- It's true that after both men's deaths, men named Johnson became president. However, Johnson is one of the most popular surnames in the United States. It is currently the second most common surname in the country.

- B EVALUATE CONTENT Read the story and the report from a fact-checking site. Then complete the chart.

Which coincidences in the story are true?

Which are untrue?

Seeing Things from a Different Perspective

Do you tend to get stuck in details and forget about the big picture? Being detail-oriented can help you get things done, but if you focus exclusively on details, you might never accomplish, or even think about, your bigger life goals. The good news is that your attention to detail can actually help you reach your life goals once you've defined them.

The first step in improving your ability to see the big picture is to actually devote time to the task. It can be easy to become so focused on details that you go from one small task to another without taking a break. Take some time out of each day to stop and think about your big goals. For example, is there a career that you want to have in the future? Do you want to get a degree? Do you want to write a book, live in a different city, become fluent in a new language? Envision yourself having achieved that goal.

Now, this is where your attention to detail comes into play. With your eventual outcome clear in your mind's eye, list the steps that you have to take to meet your goal. Writing details on sticky notes, sticking them on a wall, and looking at them all together might help you get a bird's eye view of the situation.

Finally, write your big goal down and post it somewhere where you can see it every day. The daily reminder will help you remember to keep your eyes on the prize and not get so buried in details that you lose sight of your ultimate goal.

- B READ FOR DETAILS Complete the summary of the blog post with phrases from the box. Not all phrases will be used.

see the big picture	thinking about achieving those goals	talking about focus on details	time for reaching steps toward achieving	writing it down

You can use your ability to ¹ _____ to achieve big-picture life goals. First, spend time ² _____ your life goals and see yourself ³ _____. Next, consider the necessary ⁴ _____ your big goals. Finally, remind yourself of that big-picture goal every day by ⁵ _____ and putting it somewhere you can see it.

2 CRITICAL THINKING

| 2 stem from ___ | 8 force ___ |
| 3 influence ___ | 9 source ___ |
| 4 motivate ___ | 10 result in ___ |
| 5 impact ___ | 11 implications ___ |
| 6 trigger ___ | |

B Circle the correct words and phrases to complete the paragraph.

I used to be a truck driver, transporting food and other goods from one city to another. The job paid well, but working as a truck driver had a negative ¹source / impact on my life. The problem was the fact that I was alone for days at a time. Sometimes my trips lasted over a week. ²The source / The consequence of this was that I had trouble making and keeping friends. This ³stemmed from / resulted in not being home long enough to spend time with other people. When I did have a couple of days to spend at home, I was so tired from driving that I just wanted to sleep and relax. On my birthday last year, I realized that I didn't have anyone to spend my day with. That experience finally ⁴motivated / impacted me to change jobs. Now I deliver mail in my own city. My job change ⁵has impacted / has triggered my life in positive ways. I work regular hours and get off of work at 5:00, so I have time to hang out with friends. I also have more energy than I did when I was on the road all day. Another truck driver that I know is thinking about a job change. I'm hoping that my positive experience will ⁶influence / stem from him and encourage him to take that step like I did.

2 GRAMMAR: Reduced relative clauses

A Read the reduced relative clauses and add a relative pronoun and the correct form of be to each one.

- People ^{who are} uncomfortable being alone all day should not work as truck drivers.
- Lighthouses, usually far from cities and towns, are lonesome places.
- Working alone is a good solution for anyone in need of time to themselves.
- Writers, able to make their own schedules, often find themselves working odd hours.
- Swimming pool lifeguards, usually surrounded by other people, can't spend time talking to those people because they have to focus on watching swimmers.

B Combine the two sentences using a complete relative clause. Then cross out two words to form a reduced relative clause.

1 Some people are happy being alone. These people enjoy being lighthouse keepers or truck drivers.

Some people, who are happy being alone, enjoy being lighthouse keepers or truck drivers.

2 Someone might be thinking about getting a job that requires solitude. They should consider it carefully before they make a decision.

3 Solitude is a problem for some people. It isn't a problem for me.

4 Some people are lonely because they work alone. They should get together with friends at least once a month.

5 Is anyone able to go without speaking to someone for a whole week? I don't know anyone who can do that.

6 I work in a remote area. The area is fifty miles away from the nearest town.

1 READING

A PREDICT CONTENT Look at the title of the article and the visual. What do you think the article is going to be about?

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA Read the article and circle the best summary of it.

- Lullabot, 100% remote from the very beginning, benefits from having a completely remote workforce.
- Lullabot, a website strategy, design and development company, has decided to allow all of its employees to begin working from home.
- Lullabot, a Rhode Island-based company, explains the advantages and disadvantages of having a remote workforce.

REMOTE FROM THE START

Lullabot, based in Providence, Rhode Island, is a website strategy, design, and development company. Unlike many companies, which move toward remote work after being fully established, Lullabot's employees have been working remotely since day one. Today, the company's employees are distributed all over the world.

As a result of having all their employees working remotely, the company has had to make communication with them a priority from the start. As Jared Ponchot, the company's creative director, points out, when a company begins to move from a traditional model to a remote model, it has to deal with certain difficulties. For example, the first employees to work remotely end up feeling out of the loop. This may be due to the fact that the company continues to operate as if all of its workers are in-house, and doesn't make the changes needed to make sure that remote workers are included in everything. Owing to the fact that they began with a fully remote team, Lullabot has necessarily become adept at keeping everyone well-informed.

Being 100% remote has had positive effects on Lullabot's employees. Although Lullabot has standard business hours, the company's employees are able to have flexible schedules as long as they're meeting their work-related obligations. In addition, they have the time and the space to do their most creative work without unnecessary interruptions. All-in-all, Lullabot sounds like a great company to work for.

C READ FOR DETAILS Find three examples of cause-and-effect expressions in the article. What alternatives might you use if you were telling a friend the same information?

- Example: _____
Alternative: _____
- Example: _____
Alternative: _____
- Example: _____
Alternative: _____

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY What would you say the writer's attitude toward Lullabot is? Find two examples to support your opinion.

3 WRITING

A CREATE COHESION Use participial phrases to connect the ideas and reduce the information to one sentence. Check your work by referring to the text above.

- 1 Lullabot began as a remote company. Lullabot's management has a lot of experience with remote workers.
Having begun as a remote company, Lullabot's management has a lot of experience with remote workers.
- 2 Lullabot's employees can work wherever they want to. The employees can choose workspaces where they feel most comfortable.
- 3 Other companies see Lullabot as a successful remote company. Lullabot is a good model for other companies that want to go remote.

B Use the information in the box to write a profile of a company. Include at least two introductory participle phrases and two phrases to show cause and effect.

- MobileApp Company—App Designer and Developer
- Everyone works remotely on Wednesday through Friday.
 - Employees are more productive at home.
 - No commuting means employees are less stressed.
 - Employees are more creative when they're not stressed.
 - The company is considering becoming 100% remote.

A Circle the correct word or phrase to complete each sentence.

Matthew So, Lila, tell me about what you like to make.

Lila Well, I've been a maker for a long time. I design and sew my own clothes. I make jewelry, and I make ceramic pieces, like plates, bowls, and mugs. I ¹even/simply made my own kitchen table.

Matthew Wow, that must have been challenging.

Lila It ²even/really was.

Matthew You've been able to make a successful business out of your crafts, right?

Lila Yes, that's right. I sell my jewelry online. It wasn't ³immediately clear/exactly right to me at first which of my crafts I should sell. However, ⁴what I enjoyed making most was/what I enjoyed making most were jewelry, so I decided to go with that.

Matthew Were you successful right away?

Lila No, I wasn't. ⁵Even/Actually, for the first few months, I didn't sell anything at all. I started to worry, but then a friend of mine helped me redesign my website and I started an Instagram account for my jewelry. I didn't know if it was going to work, but then it ⁶does/did help a lot. I was ⁷extremely anxious/genuinely thrilled when that happened.

1 READING

A PREDICT CONTENT Look at the headlines. Match each headline to the correct topic.

- | | | |
|----------------------------|-------|---------------------------------------|
| 1 The Face of Fear | _____ | a why we enjoy being scared |
| 2 Fear for Fun | _____ | b how our bodies react to fear |
| 3 Overcoming Fear | _____ | c what we look like when we're scared |
| 4 Fight or Flight Response | _____ | d how to deal with our fears |

B READ FOR MAIN IDEAS Read the stories and write the correct headline for each one. Use two of the headlines from exercise 1A.

A _____

Imagine that you're sitting in your dark living room watching a scary movie. The main character hears a noise in the basement. She decides to go down to see what it is. As a viewer, you know that there's a monster in the basement and the main character shouldn't go downstairs. You also know that at some point soon, the monster is going to jump out at the main character. Still, even though you're expecting it, you jump. What does your face look like at this moment? If you were genuinely scared, your eyes would be wide and your mouth open. Why does this happen? Scientist Charles Darwin had an explanation. He found that when we are scared, we instinctively tighten our muscles, even the muscles in our face. This is so we are ready to defend ourselves or run away if we have to. When we are truly scared, we can't avoid tightening these muscles, and inevitably, we make the face of fear.

B _____

When you feel scared, whether it's for a moment when someone jumps out at you from behind a door, or for several minutes while you wonder if the noise you hear outside is a burglar or just your neighbor's cat, your body changes in certain ways. Some of these changes are noticeable. Your heart beats faster, your breathing rate increases, and your face might become flushed or get very pale. Other changes are not visible. Your blood vessels become wider, your digestion slows down or might even stop, and your hearing and vision become very focused. All of these changes are part of your fight or flight response to fear, and they help you fight off an attacker or get away as fast as you can. For example, wider blood vessels allow more blood to get to your muscles so they are stronger. Your digestion slows down because your body needs all its energy to deal with the current threat. And your hearing and vision change so you can locate a threat more easily.

2 CRITICAL THINKING

- A THINK CRITICALLY How do you think the fight or flight response might have helped humans 15,000 years ago? How might it not be as useful to us now?

3 WRITING

- A Read this summary of one of the topics below based on information from the two texts in exercise 1B. Which topic is it summarizing? Circle the topic.

why we like to be scared

why fear makes us react in certain ways

All of the changes that happen in our bodies when we're afraid help us to deal with the threat we are facing. Our physical reactions help us become stronger so we can locate a threat, fight against it, or run away from it.

- B Write a short summary of the topic that wasn't summarized in exercise 3A.

1 VOCABULARY: Talking about customs and traditions

A Complete the chart with the words in the box.

festivities	honor (our grandmother)	keep alive	mark (the occasion)
observe	pay tribute to	(this) practice	rites ritual	significance	signify	symbolize

Nouns	Verbs

B Circle the correct words to complete the story.

Every year, my family gets together to ¹*honor / observe* the holiday of Chuseok, a Korean harvest celebration. The ²*festivities / practices* take place during the eighth month of the lunar year when there's a full moon.

We always prepare a lot of delicious foods for Chuseok. The abundance of food ³*signifies / honors* a good harvest. One of these foods is seongpyeon, a type of rice cake. It is white, shaped like a half circle, and filled with things like sesame seeds or pine nuts. Because of its shape, it ⁴*marks / symbolizes* the moon.

Ancestors are also an important part of Chuseok. First, we have a memorial service at home. This ⁵*significance / ritual* usually takes place in the morning. Then we visit our ancestors' graves later in the day to observe / honor them.

My family and I participate in Chuseok because we really enjoy it, but more importantly, we do it because we want to help ⁶*keep / mark* these traditions ⁷*significant / alive*.

1 READING

A READ THE MAIN IDEA Read the article below. Then circle the main idea.

- a It is impossible for one person to successfully create a new language.
- b It is important to preserve languages that are disappearing.
- c Constructed languages might prove that language affects thought.

B READ FOR ATTITUDE Read the article again. Is the writer emotionally engaged? Why do you think so?

What Can We Learn from Constructed Languages?

One argument for saving disappearing languages is the idea that when we lose a language, we lose a way of thinking. Can language affect, or even control, the way we think? Examining constructed languages – those created by a single person or group of people – shows us that our thoughts might be limited by the words we use.

Many people may be familiar with languages invented for TV shows, such as Star Trek (Klingon) and Game of Thrones (Dothraki). However, hundreds of languages have been constructed. One of these is Newspeak, which was invented by author George Orwell for his novel 1984. In the novel, the rulers of Oceania create Newspeak, based on English, in order to control their citizens. One way that they achieve this is by limiting vocabulary. With a greatly reduced vocabulary, citizens don't have the words to express complex thoughts, and the rulers hope this will stop them from actually having complex thoughts.

Another language that attempts to affect thought is E-Prime. Also based on English, E-Prime has only one special rule – it doesn't include any form of the verb be. Because the verb be is used so frequently in English, this simple change requires speakers to be more creative and more precise with their speech. For example, instead of saying "That's a terrible idea," an E-Prime speaker has to say something like, "I don't think that idea will work."

Newspeak and E-Prime are two examples of languages that were created with the goal of influencing thought and expression. One attempts to limit thought and the other tries to expand it. Would they have influenced people's thoughts if they were actually widely spoken? Those who argue that thought creates language might say no. However, I believe that it's the other way around—language creates thought.

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY Do you agree with the writer's conclusion? Why or why not?

3 WRITING

- A Read the summary of the text. Has the writer captured the main idea and argument correctly? Underline any incorrect information. Is there any key information missing?

The constructed languages Newspeak and E-Prime show us that language can affect thought. Newspeak does this by restricting vocabulary. In addition, it restricts the use of the verb be so that speakers have to be creative in order to express their ideas. E-Prime, which is based on English, aims to make speakers and writers use more precise language, thereby influencing the way they think. Some say that thought influences language. However, Newspeak and E-Prime show us that language might, in fact, control thought.

- B Rewrite the end of the summary in exercise 3A using one of the parallel structures below.

Some argue that ... but the author disagrees, saying ...

While some say ... , the author feels ...

Many claim that ... However, the author maintains that ...

- C Rewrite the summary in exercise 3A. Make sure that it captures the main idea and argument correctly and that there's no key information missing.

TIPS FOR BECOMING A QUICK LEARNER

Learning something new can be time consuming, but effectively retaining what you learn, without having to review it multiple times, can shorten the time you spend learning a new skill. Follow these tips for retaining information and learning more quickly.

1 _____

Pay attention to new information as if you were going to have to teach it to someone else. Approaching new information from a teacher's point of view can help you focus on key points and organize the information into manageable portions even when you are hearing the information for the first time. After you've heard or read the information once, teach it to someone else. That helps you retain what you've learned.

2 _____

After learning something new, get a good night's sleep. While you sleep, your brain activity doesn't stop. In fact, some brain functions thrive on sleep. For example, research shows that sleep helps the hippocampus, the part of the brain devoted to memory, form long-term memories. Storing information in your long-term memory means you're turning new information into knowledge.

3 _____

It may be tempting to type your notes on a laptop or tablet, particularly because most of us type faster than we write. However, research reveals that writing things by hand is far superior to typing when it comes to information retention. One reason for this is that most people can't write fast enough to write down every word that someone says. Because of this, we have to process the information, making decisions about what is important and what isn't as we take notes.

B EVALUATE INFORMATION Complete the chart with information from the article.

Do you eat healthy food and exercise regularly in order to have a healthy lifestyle? Even if you ¹*do / have / are*, there is one important aspect of your health that you might not think about—your posture. Poor posture makes your body work harder than it needs to, and ²*you / they / this* can result in serious consequences for the body, such as back pain and muscle aches. Good posture, on the other hand, allows you to use your muscles efficiently and helps ensure that ³*it / they / their* remain healthy as you grow older.

If you feel that you have bad posture, there are several ways that you can improve ⁴*them / your / it*. Exercises can strengthen your back and shoulders to help you sit and stand taller. Specific stretching exercises can have ⁵*the same / similar results / them*. Posture correctors can also help. ⁶*They / It / Their* are usually worn around the chest and shoulders, holding the back straight and the shoulders back. These days, you can even use an app to improve your posture. Some apps simply send you reminders to take a break to stand up, stretch, and check your posture. ⁷*Some / Them / One* uses a webcam to monitor your posture and tells you to improve it. Apps that use your phone or a sensor attached to your back do ⁸*similar results / it / the same*.

C 9.02 LISTEN FOR STRESSED AND UNSTRESSED GRAMMAR WORDS Listen to the sentences from the interview. Underline the complex noun phrase in each sentence. Circle the word with the main stress.

- Residents of the city of Barton want clean water.
- Their fear of drinking contaminated water has driven them to rely on bottled water for drinking and cooking.
- Several studies illustrating Barton's growing water pollution problem have been published in the local newspaper, Ms. Green.
- These experts in water pollution and safety will be able to help me design a plan to clean up our water supply.
- If I am elected mayor, a committee consisting of some of these experts, local engineers, and city employees will take action to make sure that our residents have clean water to drink.

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY What are two possible reasons that one of the mayoral candidates does not give straight answers to the interviewer's questions?

- _____
- _____

Going Out Of BUSINESS

3 SPEAKING

A Number the conversation in order.

- ___ Mayor Well, that's certainly an interesting claim, but I'd like to see some facts to back that up. I haven't seen any proof that landlords are asking for twice as much money.
- ___ Interviewer This city is growing fast, and because so many people are looking for apartments, some landlords are charging double the usual rent.
- ___ Interviewer How do you explain the fact that long-time residents are moving to neighboring cities to find housing?
- ___ Interviewer Some of these long-time residents are taking their businesses with them when they move. We've already lost ten percent of our local businesses. Are you suggesting that that is not an issue?
- 1 Interviewer Don't you think maybe it's a good idea to talk about the housing prices in this city?
- ___ Mayor I'll need to get back to you on that after I've done some research on local businesses.
- ___ Mayor I'm glad you brought that up. We certainly are looking into housing prices.
- ___ Mayor Well, I'm afraid I can't comment on that. It may be that they prefer the other cities.

B Imagine that a lot of cars are suddenly being stolen in your city. Write an interview with a police officer. The police officer does not know all the details and isn't ready to give straight answers. Use probing questions and phrases to deflect or buy time to think.

Feeding a Hungry World

World hunger is one of the major challenges we face today. It is estimated that nearly eleven percent of the population is underfed. Although there are almost eight billion people on the planet, and experts predict that there will be more than ten billion by the year 2100, the problem is not with the food supply per se. Globally, we produce more than enough food to feed everyone. However, that food is not getting to hundreds of millions of people around the world.

So what, then, is the cause of the food crisis? The main contributing factor in world hunger is poverty. Nearly one billion people live under the poverty line, meaning they have less than $1.90 to spend a day. Consider that the next time you spend $5 on a cup of coffee. Many people, particularly people in developing countries, simply cannot afford to buy nutritious food. In addition, poverty by its very nature creates more poverty. As a matter of course, poverty leads to hunger and malnutrition, which leads to illness, physical weakness, and mental exhaustion. As such, malnourished people don't have the ability or the energy to work and earn money, so the cycle of poverty continues. Financial donations help, but they can't solve the problem, which, fundamentally, is the lack of regular access to healthy food.

An organization called Groundswell International is attempting to solve the world hunger crisis by providing that access, one community at a time ...

- B Write answers to the questions.

1 Globally, how many people don't have enough food?

2 How high will the global population get by the year 2100?

3 How many people live under the poverty line?

4 What is the poverty line in dollars per day?

2 CRITICAL THINKING

- A THINK CRITICALLY Answer the questions.

1 What do you think might be another cause of world hunger?

2 What is one way that you could contribute to a solution to hunger in your own community?

3 WRITING

A Circle the correct adverbials to complete the paragraph.

Community, ¹by definition / as such / per se, is a group of people who live together in the same place. ²In and of itself / Per se / As such, members of a community should help each other. It has come to my attention that many elderly people in this community don't have access to good food. The local food bank has groceries for people in need, but this won't solve the problem ³by definition / in and of itself / by its very nature. ⁴Fundamentally / As a matter of course / As such, the issue is that the majority of our elderly residents are unable to get to the food bank or the supermarket to get groceries. The majority of them are also unable to prepare food for themselves, so ⁵by its very nature / at its heart / as a matter of course, they don't get the nourishment that they need.

B Groundswell International is an organization that provides people with the resources to produce their own food. Read the information about the organization and write an explanatory paragraph about how it helps solve the world hunger crisis.

Groundswell International teaches family farmers how to:

- improve and regenerate their soil
- harvest rainwater for farming
- improve their seed supplies

The family farmers are able to:

- grow food for their families and their community
- earn money from farming
- send their children to school

2 GRAMMAR: Simple past for unreal situations

A Read the sentences. Write A (has already happened) or W (the speaker would like to happen).

- 1 A company called Beyond Meat created a meat alternative that tastes like meat. ____
- 2 It's time we all tried different meat alternatives. ____
- 3 I tried a shrimp alternative made from pea protein and other ingredients. ____
- 4 Some people would rather we never started raising cows for beef. ____
- 5 What if someone created a meat alternative that tasted better than beef? ____
- 6 Imagine if you could create your own meat out of vegetables. ____

B Rewrite the sentences to use the simple past and the phrases in parentheses.

- 1 People should start eating less meat. (It's time)

- 2 Maybe we can make meat in a laboratory. (What if we)

- 3 It's urgent that we find a better food source. (It's high time)

- 4 Picture this—we eat only bugs. (Imagine if)

- 5 Some people prefer that we find an alternative to eating meat. (would rather)

- 6 Can you imagine not eating meat for the rest of your life? (Imagine if you)

- 7 It's urgent that we make changes to protect the environment. (It's high time)

1 VOCABULARY: Discussing global energy issues

A Circle the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 Aspen, Colorado is low-carbon / powered / biofuel by 100% clean energy.
- 2 In places where a lot of people live off-grid / low-carbon / fossil fuel, alternative energy sources are their only option.
- 3 Healthy food, like fruits and vegetables, renewable / low-carbon / energize you better than sugary foods do.
- 4 It's important for people who live off-grid to have energize / carbon footprint / self-sustainable energy sources.
- 5 You can put solar panels / fossil fuel / biofuel on your roof and use the sun's energy for electrical devices in your home.
- 6 Wind power is a(n) off-grid / carbon-neutral / fossil fuel source of energy. It doesn't produce any greenhouse gases.
- 7 Some cars run on biofuel / fossil fuel / carbon footprint made from vegetable oil rather than gasoline.
- 8 Many car companies now offer renewable / self-sustainable / low-emission vehicles that run on electricity, or a combination of electricity and gasoline.
- 9 We need to find low-carbon / carbon footprint / off-grid alternatives to gasoline and oil.
- 10 We can't rely only on solar panels / fossil fuels / biofuels because the supply is running out and they are bad for the environment.
- 11 It's important to try to reduce your carbon footprint / fossil fuel / power by using less gasoline and producing less garbage.
- 12 We need to use biofuel / off-grid / renewable energy sources, like the sun and the wind.

- A Before you read, what do you think of peer-to-peer car sharing, in which individuals rent their cars out to people when they're not using them? Circle your answer.

It's a good idea. It's a bad idea.

- B PREDICT FROM CONTENT Look at the key words and phrases related to the discussion thread below. Which do you think will be used to defend peer-to-peer car sharing and which will be used to criticize it? Write D (defend) or C (criticize). Read the thread and check your answers.

| 3 great alternative ___ | 6 acceptable risk ___ |

Peer-to-Peer Car Sharing—Good or Bad?

With the rise of the sharing economy, anyone can earn money by sharing their knowledge, their homes, and their work spaces. What do you think about peer-to-peer car sharing?

A  Joseph

At first glance it would seem that renting out your car when you're not using it is an easy way to make some extra money. However, with respect to the financial aspect of peer-to-peer car sharing, you could be taking a big financial risk. What if the driver gets into an accident? Would you be facing increased insurance rates? Who would be responsible for paying for any damage caused? In brief, I think this kind of car sharing is a bad idea.

B  Zarina

Regarding the risks and rewards of peer-to-peer car sharing, I think the financial rewards far outweigh the risks. Car owners can earn more than $10 an hour in some places. Rent your car out for ten hours a week, and you're bringing in an extra $400 a month. By no means am I suggesting that you should participate if you feel uncomfortable doing so. For some, however, it is a great way to subsidize the cost of a car.

C  Miguel

It's probably true that there is a certain level of acceptable risk when renting a car out to strangers. From the perspective of a car renter, though, peer-to-peer car sharing is a great alternative to buying a car or renting one from a rental agency. Wouldn't you rather pay a few dollars to rent a car for an hour than pay for a whole day when you don't need it that long?

- C IDENTIFY MAIN POINTS AND OPINION Read the thread again. Match the contributors to the main points they make. Then circle the names of the contributors who are in favor of peer-to-peer car sharing.

- | | |
|--------------|--|
| 1 Joseph ___ | a It's a great way to make extra money. |
| 2 Zarina ___ | b It's too big of a financial risk. |

OPINIONS: The New Soccer Team

Our brand-new local soccer team has just chosen its name and colors, and I have to confess that I'm unimpressed by the team's choices. The name the team has chosen is The Dunes, which refers to the sand dunes along the beaches of our town. A lot of locales around town use "the dunes" in their names. For example, our local shopping mall is called "Shops at the Dunes," and there's a hotel by the beach called "The Dunes Inn." I think that the phrase "the dunes" works really well for the mall and the hotel because it conveys the idea of a relaxing beach, but I don't think it's a good name for a sports team. A soccer team should be fast and energetic, and the concept of dunes does not convey speed or energy. Dunes don't move. They just sit there.

The team has chosen the colors blue and brown for their uniforms. These colors represent the ocean and the sand. In my opinion, this is another poor decision. The light and bright shade of blue that was chosen is beautiful, but it evokes feelings of peace rather than energy. The light brown shade that is used in the uniforms doesn't resonate with me at all. It's just a dull, muted color. It doesn't convey energy or speed in any way.

I wish that the team had consulted with city residents before making a final decision about its name and colors. Many people around town are unhappy with the choices. Some, including me, have even written letters to the team, asking them to reconsider their decisions.

2 CRITICAL THINKING

A THINK CRITICALLY Think about a famous sports team. What is the team's name? What is its symbol or mascot? What are its colors? What do these things convey to you? Do you think they are good choices?

3 WRITING

A Read the article in exercise 1A again. Then complete the chart.

What opinions does the writer offer?	What examples does the writer give to support those opinions?

B Write an opinion essay on the topic below. Use examples to support your opinion.

Topic: Imagine that your city is going to have a new baseball team. What colors do you think the team should use? What should the team's name and mascot be?

1 READING

A What is one way that a character can change through the course of a story?

THREE TYPES OF CHARACTER ARCS

In any story, whether it be told as a movie, a book, or a television series, important characters become different in some way by the end of the story. The process of their change is called a character arc. Character arcs can be broken down into three different categories.

One type of character arc is the transformation arc. With this type of arc, a character essentially becomes a different person by the end of the story. Usually the character starts as an ordinary individual and becomes a hero. An example of this type of character arc is the title character of the Harry Potter series. At the beginning of the series, Harry is a normal boy living an insignificant life, and by the end, he is a hero who saves the world from an evil wizard.

Another type of character arc is the growth arc, which as the name implies, involves a character growing in some way. Less extreme than the transformation arc, this arc might see a character become more mature, learn something new, or develop a new understanding. The title character in the movie Lady Bird follows this type of arc. At the beginning of the film, Lady Bird seems to hate everything about her life, constantly complaining about and rejecting her hometown and her family, particularly her mother, who is difficult to please. As the movie comes to a close, however, Lady Bird begins to accept, and even appreciate, what she has.

The third type of character arc is the fall arc. A character following this arc makes a series of bad choices, and as a result, destroys his or her life by the end of the story. The character of Voldemort in the Harry Potter series is an example of this arc. Resentment over the life he's been given drives him to make bad decisions, which cause him to become less and less human and eventually results in his death.

B READ FOR MAIN IDEA According to the writer, what happens in every story?C ANALYZE CONTENT Complete the chart.

Types of character arc:	The ¹ transformation arc	The growth arc	The ⁸ _____ arc
Example character:	² _____	Example character: ⁵ _____	Example character: Voldemort
At the beginning:	³ he's a normal boy	⁶ _____	⁹ _____
At the end:	⁴ _____	⁷ _____	¹⁰ _____

2 CRITICAL THINKING

- A THINK CRITICALLY Think of another movie character that goes through a significant transformation. Who is the character and why does the character change?

3 WRITING

- A Break this complex sentence into three or more simple sentences. Make any necessary grammatical changes. At the beginning of the film, Lady Bird seems to hate everything about her life, constantly complaining about and rejecting her hometown and her family, particularly her mother, who is difficult to please.

- B In exercise 2A, you wrote about a character from a movie. Now write a review of that movie. Include two or more complex sentences as you explain the plot.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

1.5 TIME TO SPEAK Professor Robot?

A Think of three tasks that you don't like to do and wish a robot could do for you. Complete the chart.

What is the task?	Why don't you like to do it?	How do you think a robot could do it better?

B Create an advertisement for your robot. In the advertisement, describe what tasks the robot could do and why it could do it better than a human could. Share your ad in the next class.

2.5 TIME TO SPEAK Labeled out

- A Create a survey about brand-name foods (well-known brands) vs. generic brands (usually less expensive versions of well-known brands). Write four questions to ask.
- B Survey your friends and family.
- C Bring your survey results to your next class and present your results.

3.5 TIME TO SPEAK The ripple effect

A Make a list of effects that you have had on your environment and the people in your life.

- B Choose the three most significant effects and imagine how the world would be different if you hadn't been born.
- C Present your ideas during your next class.

4.5 TIME TO SPEAK Every last detail

- A Choose an event to plan from the box below.

a class reunion	a team-building weekend for work
a friend's important birthday party	an evening with clients from out of town
a weekend-long family reunion	a weekend retreat for artists and writers

- B Think about what you need to do to host the event. Start with big-picture elements. Then list the smaller steps necessary to achieve each goal. Use your ideas to create an action plan.
- C Make a poster to advertise your event. Present your poster in your next class and explain your action plan.

5.5 TIME TO SPEAK Make the case

- A Choose the job that you think is best for you.

truck driver	park ranger	librarian	software developer
teacher	sports coach	police officer	newspaper reporter

- B Think about why the job you chose would be best for you.
- C Give a presentation to your class, explaining which job you chose and why that job would be best for you.

6.5 TIME TO SPEAK Planning a surprise

- A Think of friends or family members who deserve a fun, special surprise. Think about what kinds of things they like, what they dislike, whether they like surprises, and whether they have any fears or phobias.
- B Choose the surprise you think a friend or family member would like. Then ask that person whether or not he or she would actually enjoy that surprise.
- C In your next class, describe the surprise you chose, why you chose that surprise, and how your friend or family member react to the idea.

7.5 TIME TO SPEAK Preserving a custom

- A Research one of the following cultural celebrations or use your own idea.

Día de los Muertos, Mexico	Obon, Japan
Pchum Ben, Cambodia	Gai Jatra, Nepal

- B Find out about how people observe the celebration that you chose. What rites or rituals do they perform? What kinds of foods do they eat? When does the celebration occur?
- C Give a presentation to your class about what you learned.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

8.5 TIME TO SPEAK Make a pitch

A Choose one of the services below. You are going to create an investment pitch for it.

a restaurant and cooking school where students make all the food a company that organizes events to help people make friends a hotel where people can stay and take various arts and crafts workshops

B Identify the key elements of your pitch:

- the strengths, aims, and selling points of your service
- questions people might ask
- the problem(s) that your service will solve
- an analogy that will make the idea accessible
- a mission statement

C Write your pitch in bullet point format and give a presentation in your next class.

9.5 TIME TO SPEAK Desert island dilemma

A Imagine that you are going to live on an isolated island for two years with one friend. What are three skills that you think you should learn before you go?

B Think about the reasons for your choices.

C Give a presentation in your next class about the three skills that you chose.

10.5 TIME TO SPEAK Rent-a-Pet

A Imagine that you want to start a business in your community. Choose from the ideas below or use your own idea:

individuals trade services for handmade goods and vice versa people rent out their driveways to people who don't have parking spaces people rent out their backyards for parties people take turns walking each other's pets a community garden that anyone can use in favor of: _____

against: _____

B Think of a name for your company and prepare a formal presentation for it. Consider the issues or concerns people may have about your idea.

C Give a presentation in your next class about your idea.

11.5 TIME TO SPEAK Fly your flag

- A You are responsible for designing new packaging for one of your favorite products. What elements do you need to consider?

- B Choose the three or four most important elements from your list to include in your design. Take notes about the reason for each element and give an example to explain your ideas.
- C Make a drawing of your design.
- D Give a presentation about your new product design in your next class. Bring in the product or a sample of the product to compare to your new design.

12.5 TIME TO SPEAK Every picture tells a story

- A Find a picture online or in a magazine that shows some kind of action and at least two people. You are going to make up a story about it.
- B Decide on the genre of your story and decide who the characters—the people in the picture—are to each other. Then develop the plot and map out your story. Make sure it has a clear beginning, middle, and end, as well as a climax.
- C Bring your picture to your next class and tell your story to your classmates.

Corpus

Development of this publication has made use of the Cambridge English Corpus (CEC). The CEC is a multi-billion word collection of contemporary spoken and written English. It includes British English, American English, and other varieties. It also includes the Cambridge Learner Corpus, the world's biggest collection of learner writing, developed in collaboration with Cambridge Assessment. Cambridge University Press uses the CEC to provide evidence about language use that helps to produce better language teaching materials. Our Evolve authors study the Corpus to see how English is really used, and to identify typical learner mistakes. This information informs the authors' selection of vocabulary, grammar items and Student's Book Corpus features such as the Accuracy Check, Register Check, and Insider English.
