Jack and the penguins

Mr Parks works at Waterfall Zoo. His son, Jack, doesn't know a lot about the zoo. But Jack loves animals and he really enjoys learning about them.

'Can I help you at the zoo today, Dad?' Jack asks. 'Yes!' answers Dad. 'You can feed and wash some of the animals.'

Jack and his dad are in the zoo kitchen now. 'Right!' says Dad. 'I'm getting the food for the sharks and the dolphins now. That's outside.' 'OK!' Jack answers. 'Can I feed the bats, the giraffes and the zebras? Oh! And the kangaroos?'

‘No. Sorry, Jack. Feed our ten penguins first, please.’

‘Great! I love penguins!’ Jack says.

‘Me too!’ says his father. ‘Their food is in that big grey cupboard.’
But Jack isn’t looking in the big grey cupboard. He’s looking in the big blue cupboard.

He’s looking at the fruit juice, the cheese, the watermelon, the lemonade and at a big meat and potato pie.

‘Which is the penguins’ food?’ Jack thinks. ‘Oh dear! I don’t know. That pie?’

He thinks again. ‘What do penguins really like eating? Those grapes, these kiwis, those burgers, these sandwiches?’

Then Jack sees four milkshakes. ‘The pie and these milkshakes, I think. OK! How much pie and how many milkshakes for ten penguins? Oh dear! I don’t know.’

Jack picks up ALL the pie and ALL the milkshakes and carries everything carefully to the penguins.

‘Are you hungry? Are you thirsty?’ he calls and puts the pie and milkshakes on the ground. The penguins look at the pie and then look at the milkshakes and then look at Jack.

‘Oh dear! You don’t want the pie and you don’t want the milkshakes,’ says Jack and runs and gets the lemonade and sandwiches and puts them on the ground.

But the penguins don’t look happy.

‘Some water and some little fish?’ he asks.

The penguins jump up and down, up and down.

Jack laughs and says, ‘So, penguins like water and fish! I’m learning a lot today!’

Jack goes back to the kitchen. He puts some water in a big bowl and then finds the fish in the big grey cupboard.

'Twenty fish for ten little penguins. Great!' he says and carries everything carefully to the penguins.

The penguins look at the water and the fish and look at Jack and drink all the water and eat all the fish! 'Wow!' Jack thinks. 'I'm learning a lot today.'

He runs and tells his father. 'The penguins are fine now, Dad. Can I get a burger for the bats, some juice for the giraffes, some cheese for the zebras and some kiwis for the kangaroos now, please?'

Dad smiles. 'I think you looked in the wrong cupboard, Jack! That's not the food for our animals. Sorry! Come on. Let's go and get the right food now. I can help you learn all about the animals here. I know you love learning about them. Then we can wash the elephants. Elephants really enjoy that!'

'Do they? Wow!' says Jack!

I AM learning a lot today!

'Good morning!' answers Jog. 'Shall I get you some beans?'

'No, thanks!' Mr Doors answers.

My friend Meg

Meg is my best friend. All our classmates like her because she's always happy and she's very funny. She can do long sums and spell long words. She can ride a bike very fast too.

But Meg is always losing things!
I can't do long sums.
I can't spell long words and I can't ride my bike very fast.
But I can always find Meg's things for her!
Meg phones me or I phone her every day.
It was Sunday yesterday.
Meg phoned me in the morning.
She was angry!

She said, 'I can't find my pencils. I need them for maths tomorrow. I looked in my bag. I looked in our hall. I looked on the table. I looked on our wall. I looked by the door, then I looked on the floor. But ... I can't find my pencils.'
'Oh, Meg!' I said. 'Go and look under your bed!'
Meg loves reading comics and writing funny stories about all kinds of people. She's good at drawing too. She likes drawing funny clothes.

Meg likes wearing funny clothes and hats too. But she doesn't like wearing shoes. She's always taking off her shoes! She loses her shoes or her trainers every day because she puts them in lots of different places!

Meg phoned me in the afternoon yesterday. She said, 'I can't find my trainers. I need them for our sports lesson tomorrow.'

I looked in the cupboard, then under the stairs.

I looked on the sofa and under the chairs.

I looked in the box
and I looked by my socks.

But ... I can't find my trainers.'

'Oh, Meg!' I said. 'Go and look in your garden!'

Meg loves working on the computer because she likes finding out about things. She likes reading about different kinds of animals and about film stars and pop stars and music. She's really good at music. She has piano and guitar lessons. She has singing lessons at school too.

Meg always does her music homework, but then she loses it. She loses it because she puts books, comics or a board game on top of it!

Meg phoned me in the evening yesterday. She said,
'I can't find my homework. I need it for music tomorrow.
I looked on Dad's desk, then by his guitar.
I looked in Mum's bag and in the back of our car.
I looked in our kitchen and under the kitten.

But ... I can't find my homework.'

'Oh, Meg!' I said. 'Go and look by your laptop.'

It's Monday now. I'm putting my things in my school bag. I've got to run and catch the bus to school.

Meg phoned me again this morning! She said,
'Hey! I found my pencils! They were under my bed! Thanks!
I found my trainers! They were in the garden! Thank you!
I found my homework too! It was by my laptop!

You're brilliant. You're really cool.
See you at the bus stop!

High five!

Tom and Zoe are listening to the radio. When their favourite band stops playing, a woman starts talking about a sports weekend at Treetop Park. 'Come and have a great weekend with Mr Hop and make lots of new friends,' the woman says. 'You can practise your favourite sports and try some new ones too!'

Come and play
on Saturday!
Baseball or soccer,
roller skating or basketball,
try skateboarding or dancing.
You can try it at Treetop Park!

Come and play
on Sunday!
Hockey or horse riding,
table tennis or badminton,
go ice skating or swimming.
You can do it at Treetop Park!

'I'd like to go!' says Tom.

'Me too!' says Zoe. 'Let's ask Dad.'

'OK,' Dad says. 'You're both good at sport but remember - you can't be good at EVERY sport!'

It's Saturday morning. Tom and Zoe are in Treetop Park and they're playing baseball.

'Watch Tom! He's great at baseball,' says Zoe to another girl, 'but I'm terrible at it. I can't catch balls!'

Tom hits the ball with his new bat. Zoe runs really quickly and falls on the ground.

'Ow! My arm!' she says. But then she smiles and shouts, 'But look! I've got the ball!'

The other children shout, 'Wow! Well done, Zoe!'

Tom's surprised. 'Yes!' he calls to Zoe. 'That was so cool!'

'Thanks, Tom!' Zoe answers. 'I AM good at baseball!' she thinks. 'And I CAN catch a ball. Fantastic!'

'Are you all right, Zoe?' Mr Hop asks.

'She's fine! Don't worry!' laughs Tom.

Now Tom and Zoe are playing soccer. 'Watch Zoe! She's great at soccer!' Tom says to another boy, 'but I'm not. I'm not good at kicking footballs.'

Everyone's enjoying the game. Zoe kicks the ball to Tom and shouts, 'Let's get another goal now, Tom. You try! You can do it!' Tom laughs and kicks the ball, but falls on the ground. 'Ow! My leg!' he says. 'But, look! The ball's in the net!'

The other children jump up and down and clap loudly. 'Goal! Well done, Tom!' they shout. Zoe's very happy. 'Yes! That was really great, Tom!' she calls.

'Cool!' Tom says. 'Wow,' he thinks. 'I AM good at soccer. I CAN score goals! Fantastic!'

'Are you OK, Tom?' Mr Hop asks. 'He's fine! Don't worry!' laughs Zoe.

'Good!' Mr Hop says. 'What next? There's roller skating, basketball, skateboarding and dancing.'

'Brilliant!' Tom says to Zoe. 'I want to try rollerskating and basketball.'

'What about skateboarding and dancing?' asks Zoe.

'Well, I'm not good at those ... But, yes!' answers Tom.

'Me too!' laughs Zoe.

'OK!' Mr Hop answers. 'Come on!'

Tom and Zoe go home at the end of the afternoon. When their father sees them, he laughs and says, 'Well, I was right. You can't be good at every sport! Are you OK?'

'We're fine, Dad. Don't worry!' Zoe says. 'We've got lots of new friends and we had lots of fun. Oh! And Tom is a brilliant soccer player!'

'And Zoe is great at baseball!' says Tom. 'Can we go and play with our ball before dinner?'

The monster under my bed!

There's a monster upstairs. It's living in my bedroom this week. It's under my bed.

When I get up in the morning, I have to run to my cupboard very quickly. I take out my clothes and then run to the bathroom. I put my clothes on in there. I don't want to get dressed in my bedroom. I don't want the monster to come out from under my bed and take my socks or my favourite sweater.

After school, I don't play computer games. My computer is on the desk in my bedroom. I don't want to sit there with my feet on the floor. When I'm not looking, the monster comes out. I think it wants to eat my toes!

And I can't do my homework in my bedroom. I think the monster wants to write or draw on all the pages in my school books. I'm doing all my homework on the kitchen table this week. Mum says that's OK.

When I want to go to bed, I open the door to my bedroom and say very loudly, 'I know you're in here but this is my room! You aren't scary!' The monster listens, I think. It doesn't come out. I never see it. But it is scary. I know it's there.

I quickly run and jump into bed and then close my eyes and count to 100. 'Counting helps you to go to sleep,' Grandma says. When you're counting to 100, you don't think about monsters.

When I'm asleep at night, I think the monster climbs quietly out of my window. I think it finds things to eat in our garden. I know it comes back again before morning.

I told my brother about the monster. He laughed and said, 'Don't be silly, Vicky! There are no monsters under your bed, but there's a very big one under mine. There's one in my cupboard too.' I think my brother likes monsters. He draws lots of pictures of them and puts them on his walls.

I told Mum about the monster. She laughed and said, 'I didn't see any monsters under your bed when I cleaned your room yesterday.' I think the monster hides when she goes in my room. This monster is a very, very clever one!

I told Dad about the monster. He said, 'Don't worry! I'm not afraid of monsters. We can find it and tell it to go away.' But Dad didn't come and help me when I asked him to. He wanted to watch a film on television with Uncle Bill. I think Dad IS scared of monsters. I can understand that.

It's Saturday today. My brother and my parents don't want to help me, but I don't want to live with this scary monster for another week. I want to play computer games in my bedroom again.

I'm going upstairs now. I want to find the monster and tell it to go away. It can go and live with Mrs Gray. She lives in the house next to ours. My brother and I don't like her!

So, I'm looking under my bed ... I know there's a monster here. I think it's got lots of legs and a big round stomach and big scary teeth. I think it's got huge black eyes ...

But I can't see it. And I can't hear it.

Oh yes, I can. There it is!

I can do this!

Slowly ... quietly ... slowly ... quietly ... Got you!!!

What a great grandmother!

Peter's grandmother is 71, and every day she does the same things at the same time. She always gets up at seven o'clock.

She always gets dressed at eight o'clock. She always has breakfast (two pieces of bread, a banana and a cup of tea) at nine o'clock.

She always listens to music on the radio at ten. It's her favourite part of the day.

She always has a cup of coffee at 11 and then she goes for a short walk before lunch (down to the square, round the park and back home again) and she always has her lunch (fish, chips and peas with tomato sauce) at 12 o'clock.

On Friday afternoons, Peter often goes to see his grandmother. Last week, he slept at her house on Friday night too. On Saturday morning, he got up at seven o'clock and ran downstairs to talk to her.

'I've got an idea, Gran!' Peter said. 'Let's have a crazy day!'

'What do you mean?' she asked.

'Well ... you always do the same things at the same time every day.'

'Yes ... ?'

'Well, today, let's have a different day. I'm hungry! Let's have our breakfast now. And let's have egg sandwiches or sausages!'

'But I never have egg sandwiches or sausages for breakfast, Peter!' his grandmother said. But then she looked at Peter's face and said, 'OK!'

'Those sausages were really good!' Peter's grandmother said after breakfast. 'I liked them a lot!'

'I enjoyed them too,' Peter said. 'Right, now let's get dressed. Then let's go for a walk.'

'But I always listen to the radio first ...' his grandmother started to say. But then she stopped. 'All right! Good idea! Where's my coat?'

Peter's grandmother enjoyed their walk but when they got to the square, Peter said, 'Let's catch a bus to Market Street. There's a really cool café between the library and the shopping centre. We can look at the shops and then have our lunch there too!'

'But I never catch buses, Peter, and I never go to the shopping centre in Market Street and I never eat in cafés!' Peter's grandmother said. But then she looked at the smile on Peter's face and said, 'OK! Come on!'

Peter's grandmother enjoyed walking around the shopping centre. She bought a new watch, a fantastic purple and yellow sweater and a little cupboard for her bathroom. Then, in another shop, she found an exciting board game for Peter.

'I'm having lots of fun!' she said. 'What a great day!'

When they got to the café, Peter said, 'Let's have noodles!'

'But I never have noodles or pancakes!' Peter's grandmother said. But then she smiled and said, 'All right! I can try them, today.'

After lunch, Peter's grandmother said, 'Everything was brilliant! Those noodles and chocolate pancakes were fantastic. I loved them!'

'Good!' Peter said. 'Now let's go home. I know you sometimes sleep in the afternoon ... and I'm tired!'

'But I don't want to go home and I don't want to sleep this afternoon, Peter,' his grandmother said.

'Let's go for a boat ride on the river and then go for a walk all around the lake. We can buy cakes and eat them in the park and then we can go to the cinema! I never do any of those things but I'd like to do them all today!'

Peter smiled. 'OK, Gran!' he said. 'Let's go! You know, you really are a great grandmother!'

'And you really are a great grandson, Peter!' she laughed.

The old man and the jungle

The old man and the child live in the jungle. The jungle is their home. They like listening to the tall banana trees when they move in the wind. They like listening to the blue parrots and the noises of all the other jungle animals and birds. They like growing vegetables in the old man's jungle garden and making and eating sweet jungle fruit cake.

They like finding beautiful little orange flowers and putting them in their hair. They like drinking water from the waterfall from the big, round jungle leaves. They like walking by the long, slow, blue river and talking to the ugly, fat crocodiles and watching the small, yellow fish swim here and there, here and there, in the water. And they both love sitting quietly in the sun.

But one day in the jungle, there was no sun in the big jungle sky. The old man wasn't happy about that. He sat in his old chair and didn't move. The child came and sat down on the green grass next to him.

What's the matter, Old man?

'Have you got stomach-ache? My brother gets stomach-ache sometimes when he eats too many mangoes.'

'A stomach-ache? Oh, no! My stomach is fine, thank you,' answered the old man.

'Well, have you got an earache?' the child asked. 'My mother gets earache sometimes when I play my jungle drums too loudly.'

'An earache? Oh, no! My ears are fine, thank you,' answered the old man.

The old man and the child stopped talking and went and sat in the tree. They listened for the parrots and the noises of the other jungle animals and birds but the parrots didn't come.

'Well, have you got a toothache?' asked the child. 'My cousins get toothache sometimes when they drink too much lime juice.'

'Toothache? Oh, no! My teeth are fine, thank you,' answered the old man.

'Have you got a headache, then?'

'No.'

'A temperature? A cold? A cough?'

'No.'

The old man and the child stopped talking and went and sat by the river. They looked for the fat crocodiles but the crocodiles didn't come and no little fish swam here and there, here and there.

Then the beautiful sun came out and the old man smiled.

'Are you getting better now?' the child asked.

'Yes,' said the old man.

They saw their favourite crocodile's head above the water and three little fish came and started swimming here and there, here and there, again.

Then the old man's favourite parrot flew down from the waterfall and sat on his shoulder and said, 'Getting better, getting better?' 'Yes, clever parrot,' said the old man. 'I'm better now, thank you.' And the child and the old man laughed loudly. 'I'm very well again now.' he said. 'I'm very, very well.' 'Good' said the child.

They walked home, watered the vegetables and danced in the old man's garden under the sun. Then the old man and the child made the best sweet fruit cake in the jungle and ate it all ...

'Ate it all? Ate it all?' the parrot said. 'Be careful, Old Man! Too much cake! Stomach-ache!'

Henry's holiday

Henry likes being at home in the school holidays. He likes looking for lizards and snails and flying his kite in the field behind his house. He likes listening to music and watching television. He likes playing games on his tablet and reading comics in bed. He likes getting up in the night and eating ice cream in the kitchen too.

Henry doesn't enjoy going on holiday to different places. He doesn't want to get sand in his socks on the beach or go for long walks in the countryside and he doesn't want to sleep in a room with his parents because his dad SNORES!

But last Saturday, Henry and his parents went on holiday.

'What a great place, Henry. I love being in the countryside!' his father said in the car. 'And it's fun and exciting to eat and sleep in a tent!' his mother said. 'And look! The beach is really near!'

'Sand in my socks and sharks in the sea. Oh dear!' thought Henry. Then he saw the hills. 'Oh no! Boring long walks!' he thought. 'And there's no games room and no TV. I want to go home!'

Henry's parents started to take the tent, their clothes, their holiday chairs and table out of the car.

'Can you come and help us, Henry?' they called. 'We've got to put up the tent now!' But Henry didn't move.

'The weather's terrible, Mum!' he called. 'It's cold and windy!' 'OK,' she said.

Then it started to rain. 'Please snow too!' Henry thought. 'I want to go home!'

Henry's mother took their sleeping things out of the car, but she dropped two of the blankets on the ground and they got very wet. 'Oh dear!' she said.

Henry got out of the car. He picked up the wet blankets and gave them to his mother. 'Can we go home now, Mum?' he asked.

But they didn't go home. Henry, his mum and dad sat in the tent. They didn't read. (Dad didn't bring their glasses or their new torches.) They only had cold soup for dinner. (The bread and Henry's favourite cheese weren't in the car! They were on the kitchen table at home.)

Henry tried to sleep but his head and shoulders got cold and he woke up 42 times in the night because his dad snored and snored and snored and snored!

In the morning, Henry's dad had a bad headache. His mum's back hurt. The water in the showers was cold (brrrrrrrrrr!) and the little village shop was closed on Sundays too. Oh! And Henry found a lizard in his shoe!

Henry's parents weren't happy. Henry wasn't happy.

I know!

'Mum ... Dad ...,' Henry said slowly. 'Can we have a holiday at home? We can have hot showers in the mornings. We can go for walks and look for snails in our field in the afternoons. We can have nice hot dinners in the evenings. Then we can watch funny films on TV and then you can go to sleep in your bed and I can go to sleep in mine.'

Henry's mum looked at Henry's dad and then they both looked at Henry again.

'Yes! Great idea!' they said. 'Come on! Let's put all these wet things in the car and go home!'
