

Full Stops

A full stop can also be known as a period.

The period dot also marks abbreviations. For example, e.g.

It appears on all sentence ends. That's why people will occasionally say, "That's it. Period."

. ? ! ...

Most sentences will end with a full stop but the question mark, exclamation mark and ellipsis fulfil additional requirements...

Tell me, now, can an exclamatory question be marked with both?! Yes, this is called an interrobang.

Only use one exclamation mark per piece of writing. and remove the brackets.

Showing a pause... perhaps for thought... an ellipsis can also be used mid-sentence.
